

After the “Claims” section, please insert the following new page 8:

“Abstract of the Disclosure

The invention concerns a part for supporting and fixing an electric or electronic component, comprising a compartment supporting the electric component, two clamps each engaged and in electrical continuity with a pin of the electric or electronic component arranged in the compartment between the two clamps and a removable closure cap. The invention is characterised in that a blade is fixed on the closure cap to cut a electric wire engaged and in electrical continuity with the two clamps so as to mount the electric or electronic component in series on the electric wire. Preferably, the supporting and fixing part comprises a block to act as support for the electric wire when it is being cut by the blade and apertures providing clearance for the two strands of the cut electric wire.”